DRY DOCK ENGINEER.

MR. BENNETT WILLIAMS REFUSED THE TOUR TOO.

The Produce Exchange Thief Traced to Spain—A Wealthy New Yorker Missing—Supposed to Have Committed Suicide—Scandal in High Life.

OTTAWA, Aug. 1.—There was a painful scene yesterday when H. F. Perley, the suspended chief engineer, appeared before the Tarte committee. Mr. Perley's disgrace and humiliation have fairly crushed his life out, and he was unable to stand the strain. The members began questioning Perley about the clause in his report in which he recommended that Gallagher's tender for the cross wall be allowed to be withdrawn, because it was too low, when witness began to sway in his place, and was assisted to a chair. He covered his ashen face with his wrinkled hands, and after a moment rose to his full height, and stretching his hands pathetically towards the committee, cried in broken tones, "I know nothing about it; I know nothing about —" and then sank down into his seat again. Osler went to ask the fainting man a question or two. After the first question witness rose, half dazed again, and repeated that he knew nothing about the matter. The work was done by subordinates, and he had to assume the responsibility. Osler had another question, but witness was fainting again, and finally had to be assisted from the room and laid on a sofa outside. Simon Peters, member of the firm of Moore & Peters, who were "jockeyed" out of the Quebec contract, produced the following letter: 'Quebec, 17th June, '82. My Dear Mr. Peters,—You promised to send something for the elections. Will you kindly do it to-day? Yours very truly, H. L. Langevin." Replying to this he sent $1,000. Patrick Larkin, under examination, said Murphy engineered the payment of $25,000 and $32,000. He never asked where the money went. Ten days before he (Mr. Larkin) left the firm Murphy told him that irregular payments were made the inspectors by Mike Connolly. The witness never verified the statement.

The Dry Dock Engineer.

OTTAWA, July 24.—The statements made by O. E. Murphy and Robt. McGreevy regarding the proposal to remove Mr. Bennett, engineer in charge of the Esquimalt dry dock, were confirmed to day. Mr. G. Bennett Williams, engineer, Quebec, stated that from 1885 he was in the employ of the Government. In May, '85, he was a sessional clerk, and Thomas McGreevy told him to see Perley. He did so, and Perley told him the department was thinking of making a change in the resident engineer in Esquimalt. Perley said he would be in a position at the end of the week to speak more definitely upon the subject; then Perley told him to call upon him in a few days, and in the meantime handed him a printed tender and gave him information as to the work. At the close of the week Perley made a definite offer to him, with the statement that the progress of the work at British Columbia was not satisfactory. The next morning witness wrote to Sir Hector and Perley declining the position. Afterwards he explained his reasons to Sir Hector Langevin, who approved them. He was subsequently appointed surveyor of improvements on the North Saskatchewan river. The offer was made during the long session of 1885. He had no further conversation with Thomas McGreevy, and was a stranger to all the parties. Prior to this he had served on the Baie des Chaleurs Railway, having been engaged by Mr. Seneca to examine into the land grant. Finding that he was an engineer, he then asked him to assist the engineers. He was a graduate of the United States Military Academy, but had not such experience in that particular line.

A Thief Traced to Spain.

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—There was pleasurable excitement among the members of the Produce Exchange yesterday when it was learned that there is a good prospect of recovering the whole of the $193,000 which was stolen from the gratuity fund of the Exchange nearly three years ago by the defaulter and fugitive William R. Foster. Foster has been traced to Spain by a private detective, and although there is no extradition treaty with that country under which his arrest could be demanded, it is probable that Foster will be compelled to make good the stolen money from the proceeds of a legacy of $200,000 which he has inherited from the estate of his father.

A Wealthy New Yorker Missing.

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—Henry C. Ogden, a wealthy merchant doing business in Franklyn street in this city, and owning a beautiful cottage at Monmouth beach, is missing. He was last seen on Wednesday on the steamer Monmouth by the stewardess, who knew him. She states that he rode back and forth all that day on the steamer between Sandy Hook and New York. The last she saw of him was on the boat during a heavy shower, when she was nearing Sandy Hook pier. Searching parties are covering the Sandy Hook shore and lower bay in the hope of finding Mr. Ogden's body.

SCANDAL IN PROVIDENCE.

PROVIDENCE, R.I., Aug. 1.—Two of the most beautiful women in Providence figure prominently in a sensational divorce case which was heard in court here yesterday by Judge Wilbur. Mrs. Ella Augusta Tebbetts is the libellant and Miss Bell Shaw the co-respondent. Forest E. Tebbetts, the libelee, is one of the merchant princes of Providence. All the parties concerned move in the highest social circles and Miss Shaw has been conceded to be the queen of society. The revelations made when the suit was announced were a great shock to the local "400." Mr. Tebbetts left his wife about a year ago and, according to her charges, which were not denied in court, has been living ever since with Miss Shaw in private quarters. His wife was provided with unusually expensive surroundings, but the husband spent all his time in Miss Shaw's company. Miss Shaw is more youthful than Mrs. Tebbetts, but the latter is a remarkably handsome woman. Divorce cases seldom produce such singularly beautiful women. Each has been known in Providence for a long time and their womanly graces and charms are no less remarkable than were their girlish features of the years of their teens. They were playmates and schoolmates and each attended the school upon the aristocratic side of Providence. Tebbetts made no defence when the case was tried to-day and his wife will undoubtedly secure her divorce, inasmuch as her charge of infidelity was backed by plenty of evidence.

FIRE IN SEATTLE.

One Man Burned—Many Wooden Buildings Consumed.

SEATTLE, Aug. 1.—A fire broke out between 1 and 2 o'clock yesterday morning at the southeast corner of Fifth and Washington, the results of which cost the life of a human being and destroyed property valued at over $40,000. The rapidity with which the flames spread when discovered was due to the flimsy nature of the structures destroyed, and considering that every one of the five buildings burned were occupied by lodgers and roomers, the wonder is that more lives were not sacrificed. The man who lost his life was Giacomo Condarino, a Greek fisherman, about 50 years old, who was a roomer in Campe's boarding house. The buildings destroyed were all frame and covered the block bounded by Washington and Main, South Fifth and South Sixth streets. The corner building was owned and occupied by Peter Chiodo, the ground floor having a saloon and the upper floors being used as a lodging house. Adjoining this building south on Fifth street was Campe's boarding house, with a restaurant on the ground floor, the upper rooms being occupied by Greek fishermen and Italian laborers. This building, together with the three adjoining buildings south, was owned by Wah Chong, the Chinese capitalist of Seattle. Every one of these five buildings was destroyed. On the Washington side, in the rear of Chiodo's place was located the Montana stable, a large structure, well fitted for the purpose.

When the fire had reached the corner building two men and a woman were seen to jump from the second story of the corner building on the Washington street side. The first was J. Frost, and the others Mr. and Mrs. Desparick. The husband, besides being injured by the fall, was suffering from severe burns on his hand, face and head. His wife suffered severe bruises in the fall. All three were removed to Providence hospital for treatment. These were the only casualties, but many people narrowly escaped. All the buildings were insured, Peter Chiodo having $2000 on his place in the Liverpool, London and Globe.

NAPLES BADLY SNUBBED.

PRINCESS MAUD TREATS THE ITALIAN PRINCE COOLLY.

The Servian Boy King Feted in Russia—Prince Von Urach Has Started on an Exploring Expedition to Spitzbergen—Derbyshire Colliers Will Poach.

LONDON, Aug. 1.—It is said that the Prince of Naples has been badly snubbed by the Princess Maud of Wales, to whom he took the opportunity of his visit to England to make advances. Maud is rather the prettiest of all three daughters of the Prince of Wales, and has sweet and engaging manners. The meeting with Naples, however, was the first time that she had been brought nearer than a mere introduction to the Italian, and her emphatic way of repelling his polite approaches is said to have been amusing to the select party present on the occasion. Naples evidently felt it deeply. It was not the first time he has been snubbed by the royal Teutons. About a year ago he went courting the young Princess Marguerite of Prussia, sister of the Kaiser. The Kaiser himself was not unwilling, but Marguerite evinced from the first an insuperable repugnance for the youth and would have nothing to do with him. She was sustained by her mother, the Empress Frederick, who is devoted to Marguerite. Where the Italian will get his next snub is as yet not certain. The indications are that he will have to secure a wife among the royalties of Southern Europe. The north has given him very chilling treatment.

SERVIA'S MONARCH FETED.

King Alexander, of Servia, arrived at Kieg, Russia, on Wednesday, and was received on the front car at the government of Moscow by the Grand Duke Sergius. On his arrival at Moscow a gala dinner was given to the Kremlin, and he visited the French and Asiatic exhibitions. He will be in Peterhof to-morrow. The Czar and Grand Dukes will meet the sore eyed youth at the railway station and drive with him to the Imperial palace, where the Czarina and the Grand Duchesses will receive him. The Russians are making a good deal of the boy, as they desire to retain the friendship of Servia, which would be very useful in the event of war. The boy King is being treated with as much ceremony and more cordiality than the German Kaiser on the occasion of his visit to Russia. There is a possibility that the young King may take back to Belgrade the promise of the hand of a Russian grand duchess, the promise to be fulfilled, of course, when he comes of age. The consent of the lady herself would have very little to do with the matter, both because the Czar would have his way and because Russian princesses generally have their way after marriage.

A SCIENTIFIC PRINCE.

The Prince Von Urach has started with Count Zeppelin, Professor Bauer and others in the steamer Almelia on a scientific expedition to explore the island of Spitzburgen. The prince is a nobleman of Wurtemburg with a strong inclination for science and a proportionate dislike for the ballroom and the court. The expedition proposes to make as thorough an exploration of the island as the weather will permit with a view to see if it would be practical to establish a permanent station.

MUST NOT ASSIST PAUPERS.

The various boards of guardians throughout Ireland have been notified not to go contrary to the amended American immigration law by assisting to emigrate to the United States any pauper or any persons likely to become a public charge. Such assistance is frequently asked for and has often been granted, sometimes in meritorious cases but often to get rid of chronic and worthless mendicants.

POACHING COLLIERS.

A struggle is going on between the colliers of Derbyshire and the wealthy noblemen who own the estates in that vicinity. The colliers claim a right to hunt the hare and rabbit in the preserves for their consummation, and the noblemen are determined to prevent them. A number of colliers are now awaiting trial on the charge of poaching and attacking the gamekeepers in force when poaching was interfered with. In one battle on the Duke of Devonshire's estate three gamekeepers were made hors de combat, and had to be carried home. The practice of poaching is becoming more prevalent in the country districts.

CRICKET.

COMING TO AMERICA.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 1.—Arrangements for bringing over a team of amateurs, to be captained by Lord Hawke were concluded to day by cable and the team will sail on the City of New York Sept. 16, and will come to this city as the guests of the Germantown club. The first match against all Philadelphia will be played Friday, Saturday and Monday, September 25, 26, and 28 and the second Thursday, Friday and Saturday, September 30, and October 1st and 2nd. The local team for the first match will be chosen by the International Match Committee at the request of the Germantown club. Whether the second match shall be played against all Philadelphia has not yet been decided. A letter received from Lord Hawke to-day gives the following besides himself as probable or possible members of the team: Messrs A. D. Lewellyn, L. C. H. Palairet and E. Smith, Oxford; F. S. Jackson and S. M. J. Woods, Cambridge; M. K. Key, Surrey; H. T. Howitt, Somersetshire; G. F. Vernon, Middlesex and Lord Throwley, Kent. Lord Hawke's county is Yorkshire, for which also will play Messrs. Smith and Jackson; White, Woods and Palairet are claimed by Somersetshire. The team's tour has not yet been made out, arrangements having so far been made only between the Germantown Club and Lord Hawke. Chicago, Toronto, and New York are known to be anxious to meet the visitors.

Capt. Biagrave, of the San Francisco team, who is at present in the city, will not leave for home before the match takes place, as was at one time expected. He will play in the games on the 6th and 7th inst.

AQUATICS.

McLean's new boat weighs just 30 pounds, which is considerably lighter than the boat he rowed in the race with McKay. The little craft is a perfect beauty. The frames are all sawn from the natural wood and mortised with the gunwale as in a shell. The planks are of the best British Columbia cedar, scarcely one-eighth of an inch in thickness, and in the model straight lines predominate so that the water is disturbed as little as possible.—Columbian.

Messrs. E. Flanders, L. Stevenson and several others arrived from San Francisco by the City of Puebla last evening to attend the Peterson-McLean race, which takes place on the Fraser river next Saturday.

THE TURF.

Mr. W. H. Bainbridge, secretary of the Victoria Jockey Club, has a quantity of entry forms for the Fall meeting. They are to be had on application at his office, 44 Broad street, Morrow, Holland & Co.

The programme of the Fall meeting of the Victoria Jockey Club, as published in these columns yesterday, was compiled at Thursday evening's meeting.

THE RING.

PRITCHARD HAS AN OFFER.

LONDON, Aug. 1.—Ted Pritchard has received an offer from the California Athletic Club to go to America to fight Bob Fitzsimmons for a purse of £3000. Pritchard agrees to fight Fitzsimmons in any club in England for £1000 and the largest purse the Pelican National Club will offer.

POLO.

Since the sad accident at Malta at "polo," whereby Major Hemphill lost his life, the governor of the Island has prohibited the game being played, and polo ponies are likely to stand at a discount—in Malta, at any rate—until his excellency withdraws the prohibition.

Irish Politics.

DUBLIN, Aug. 1.—The Freeman's Journal renews its appeal to warring Irish factions to find some means of promptly effecting a reconciliation "without ruthlessly throwing to the wolves" the man whose leadership brought the cause to the threshold of success.

The National Press (McCarthyite) intimates there is a divergence of opinion among the directors of the Freeman's Journal as to the policy to be pursued by it.

Grey, it is understood, is now a thorough and Parnellite, and is supposed to need to have his hands strengthened in the work he has recently undertaken on behalf of the Irish parliamentary party.

AMALGAMATION.

Combine of the Northern Pacific and Manitoba & Northwestern.

ST. PAUL, July 31.—There is much talk of amalgamation of the Manitoba & Northwestern road with the Northern Pacific. Both companies were desirous of running over each other's lines, and it was felt that an amalgamation would be of decided benefit to both. This morning the rumor took more definite shape when Vice President W. R. Baker of the M. & N. W. left in his private car for Duluth. It is also said that Mr. Baker will succeed Superintendent Michaels, who is retiring, and will take charge of both roads at an early date.

MEXICAN RAILWAYS.

The International's Purchase of the Monterey and Gulf Road.

NEW YORK, July 31.—A cablegram to the Herald from the City of Mexico, via Galveston, says: It is reported here to-day in railway circles that the International Railway Company, of which C. P. Huntington is president, has purchased the Monterey and Mexican Gulf Railway. The report cannot be verified here, but it is very generally believed by railway men.

Ever since the Monterey road commenced building toward Durango and the Pacific coast, people have been wondering what Huntingdon would do, and this report comes to give the answer. If this purchase has been made, the International's importance and power will be greatly increased, and its extension to this city will probably follow.

FAIR SIZED NUGGETS.

Gold Nuggets Weighing From 6 to 38 Pounds Found in Central America.

GRANADA, Nicaragua, July 30.—The famous placer mines of Prinzapolka have again started the gold fever throughout Central America. Gold nuggets weighing from six to 38 pounds, 22 carats fine, were lately found there. A Nicaragua soldier stationed at the mines discovered a nugget weighing 18 pounds, which he sold at Leon for 2800 poses. Senor Cabezas, who just come from the mines, has with him rich specimens of native gold. He says there are numerous pockets distributed in all directions, obviously caused by the upheaval of the lower strata, throwing the gold mineral to the surface. Excessive heat melted the gold, causing it to flow over the ground like a stream of lava. He states that this district, which is near Bluefield, is destined to become as celebrated as the Bonanza mines of California. He is about to send 112 libras of gold to the United States to be converted into Uncle Sam's eagles, and that other miners proposed doing the same thing. It appears that the land environing Prinzapolda, for nearly 30 leagues in circumference, is rich in primeval pasture, where numerous wild cattle graze. This breed of cattle originated from choice stock brought to Jamaica from England and taken to the Mosquito coast by Maroons, who, escaping from West Indian slavery, sought and found refuge here.

TERRIBLE EXPLOSION.

Fifty Kegs of Powder Become Ignited and Explode With Terrible Effect.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., July 31.—At 11:30 o'clock last night an alarm of fire was sounded, and in less than one minute a tremendous explosion shook the entire city. The fire was in the freight depot of the Alabama Great Southern railroad near the heart of the city. The explosion was caused by the ignition of 50 kegs of powder, which had been received and stored yesterday. The building was blown wide open from end to end. Only one person, Claim Clerk Darby was in the building and he was blown out of bed. Two suspicious characters were seen around the building early in the night and driven away, and it is believed they set fire to the depot near where the powder was stored. Fire followed the explosion and what was left burned except the office. The force was terrific, shattering cars on the side track 500 yards away. Houses were shaken in the suburbs over nine miles away and thousands of windows knocked out of buildings in every direction for five blocks. The loss is $8000 on freight and will be much more on building and cars side tracked. No one was injured except one man four blocks up town, whose leg was broken when a plate glass window fell.

NEWS FROM THE BAY CITY.

Embezzler Ark Sentenced to Four Years' Imprisonment—Left Him Nothing.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 31.—Henry Ark, who embezzled $2000 while acting secretary of the Coast Seamen's Union, has been sentenced to four years in the State prison.

The ship City of Florence has arrived from Antwerp after a tempestuous voyage of 180 days. During a hurricane on May 26th the doors were burst in, the cabin filled with water, and the forecastle was gutted, the stove being washed out on deck. Many of the crew were injured, six of the men being laid up with broken arms or ribs.

The steamer St. Paul has arrived with the Turner survey party, who have been going over the boundary of the United States and British Columbia on Porcupine river in Alaska. The result of their surveys gives the United States thirty more miles of river than formerly. This makes the boundary line 210 miles above Fort Yukon. Dr. W. V. Kingsbury, of the J. E. McGrath surveying party, which went north to re-survey the boundary line of the United States and British Columbia on the Yukon river, also came down on the steamer. No deviations were found in the previous survey. J. E. French, of the same party, also returned. The remainder of the party are expected to arrive by the next steamer.

The news that the $70,000,000 estate of the late Mrs. Hopkins-Searles has been left to her husband, and that her adopted son, Timothy, had been disinherited, was much discussed in legal circles to-day. The general impression seems to be that Timothy will not succeed in breaking the will unless on the ground that the will is fraudulent and that Mrs. Searles was merely incapable to make a will, or that she was unduly influenced. It has been learned that Timothy Hopkins was adopted by Mrs. Hopkins on June 9th, 1879, a year after the death of her husband.

Spain's Treaty with the United States.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—The Spanish treaty will be made public to-morrow. The treaty with the Dominican Republic on the subject of reciprocal trade relations is complete, but will not be made public till a few days later than the Spanish arrangements regarding Cuba. In order that each may receive more attention and win credit for the administration, printed copies of the Spanish agreement were distributed to-night to be put in shape for submission to-day. John W. Foster completed the last details and arrangements regarding both treaties on his visit to the President on Sunday, and he was busy at the State Department to-day arranging the proclamation to the public. The treaty is not quite so favorable to this country as that which Mr. Foster negotiated when minister to Spain in 1884, for he then had the whole American tariff schedule to deal with, instead of being limited to the four articles of sugar, hides, tea and coffee. The new treaty, however, is expected to give the United States a great advantage in the trade in wheat, flour, provisions and many manufactured articles over the leading European nations, and to place her in some respects almost on an equal with Spain.

The Hendries Sell Out.

WINDSOR, July 31.—The sale of the Hendrie control of the Detroit Street Railway has been completed and the Hendries, George of Detroit and William of Hamilton, retire from the company with several millions. It is said that the Hendries sold out for the primary reason that they were dissatisfied with the Detroit authorities and the way they failed to protect their property in the recent street car strike in that city. George Hendrie is an American citizen, though born in Scotland, and his brother of Hamilton has always been a British subject. There is no denying that on account of this fact there was more or less hostility to them, and that rather than be met with such opposition they decided to sell, especially as Mr. George Hendrie's health broke down some time ago.

Will Appeal.

LONDON, July 31.—The announcement was made that Parnell will take appeal from the judgment which ordered him to pay £5000 costs in the O'Shea divorce suit in a few days. The registration in the London bankruptcy court decided that Parnell's objection to Captain O'Shea's notice to pay costs in the recent divorce proceedings on the ground that he was not a resident in England was untenable. It therefore, only remained for him to appeal the case or be declared bankrupt.

Will Reject Parnell.

DUBLIN, July 31.—Mr. E. Dwyer Gray, partner of the Freeman's Journal, publishes a letter in that paper in which he says, in view of the revelations made during progress of the suit for libel of Henry Campbell, member of Parliament for South Fermanagh and private secretary to Mr. Parnell, against the Cork Daily Herald, and yesterday's utterances of Dillon and O'Brien, he will henceforth reject Parnell's attempt to retain the leadership of the Irish National party.

in buying Hood's Sarsaparilla, for it is everywhere recognized as the standard building-up medicine and blood purifier. It has won its way to the front by its own intrinsic merit, and has the largest sale of any preparation of its kind. Any honest druggist will confirm this statement. If you decide to take Hood's Sarsaparilla, do not be induced to buy anything else instead. Be sure to get Hood's.

The Grand Trunk System.

The Grand Trunk system differs from the human system in that the same troubles do not affect it and the same remedies are not needed. For all diseases of the human system there is no tonic purifier, renovator and strengthener as good as Burdock Blood Bitters. A weak system can be built up by B.B.B.

MONEY TO LOAN, CONVEYANCING & NOTARIES PUBLIC

GENERAL AGENTS, BRITISH COLUMBIA

MUTUAL LIFE INS COMPANY of N.Y.

The British Columbia Deposit and Loan Co., Ltd.

Capital $500,000 (with power to increase), Divided into 10,000 Shares of $50 each.

DIRECTORS:—The Hon. Sir Joseph W. Trutch, Victoria, K.C.M.G., Chairman, E. Crow Baker, Esq., Victoria; C. T. Dupont, Esq., Victoria; Thomas Earle, Esq. (Thos. Earle & Co.), Victoria, M.P., Merchant; Thomas B. Hall, (Victoria and Montreal, "Mount Royal Milling and Manufacturing Company, Limited), Victoria, Manufacturer; William Wilson, Esq. (W. & J. Wilson), Victoria, Merchant; Henry Young, Esq. (Henry Young & Co.), Victoria, Merchant.
OFFICES—Turner Block, Douglas Street, Victoria, B.C.
BANKERS—The Bank of British Columbia, Victoria, B.C.
MANAGER—J. Keith Wilson, Esq.

The objects for which the Company is established are:—

1. To invest and lend money at interest on the security of real estate or other property in British Columbia and elsewhere, or any interest therein, including existing mortgages or other securities, also to purchase the bonds or debentures of any Government or Municipal body, or of any incorporated railway company, or other incorporated body.

2. To acquire, hold and sell any such property as aforesaid, purchased as aforesaid, or accepted as security for money advanced by or owing to the Company.

3. To build on, drain, let, farm, develop or otherwise utilize or improve, and generally exercise the rights of owners over any property the Company may lend on or acquire an interest in.

4. To undertake agencies and conduct financial business of any kind in British Columbia or elsewhere.

5. To receive and take money on deposit, or for investment on the guarantee of the Company or otherwise, or to guarantee payment of any money expressed to be secured by any mortgage.

6. To borrow money at interest, and to issue bonds or debentures as security therefor; and

7. To perform all such acts, matters and things as the Company may deem incidental or otherwise conducive to the attainment of any of the above objects, or to the conversion or disposition of any security or property held by the Company.

The organization of the Company is the result of the consideration by its promoters of the subject of Insurance, which now permeates nearly every class of mercantile business. When considering the subject it occurred to them that if the principle of Insurance in the form of a satisfactory guarantee for the due payment of interest at a rate to be agreed upon and against loss of principal, were to be applied to the ordinary investment of money on securities, a large percentage of capital now on deposit at low rates of interest in the savings banks and other depositories, and which is locked up, would be withdrawn and become available for loans on securities, and thus be put in circulation.

With a view of offering such guarantee this Company has been incorporated with a capital of $500,000 (with power to increase), a small instalment only, viz., $10,000, of which has been called up to meet initiatory expenses. The remaining unpaid portion of this capital sum, viz., $490,000, shall form such guarantee to investors with the Company, which it is intended to supplement by the creation of a Reserve Fund, of which the unexpended balance of the capital called up shall form the nucleus.

It is further intended that no calls shall be made in respect to the unpaid capital except to meet liabilities.

The whole of the capital has been subscribed by persons whose position, both financially and socially, is believed to be unquestionable; and by the Articles of Association no person can hold more than 200 shares (representing $10,000), nor will any shareholder be at liberty to have transfer of his shares registered without the sanction of the Directors having been first obtained.

Deposits may be secured by debentures to be issued by the Company or by similar debentures secured by the hypothecation of securities taken by the Company.

Arrangements may be effected with the Company for the guarantee of securities approved by the Company.

KOOTENAY NEWS.

From the Miner.]

Tom Barker, M. C. Monaghan, and George Keefer returned to Nelson on Monday, after a three-weeks' prospecting trip on the headwaters of Salmon river. They went over Red Mountain to the head of the north fork of the Salmon, then followed that stream down ten miles to a big creek coming in from the west. On ascending the creek they found a basin covering quite an area of good looking, grass covered land. In the basin were any number of cariboo, but having left their rifles at their camp on Forty-nine creek, they did not manage to get fresh meat. Returning to the mouth of the creek, they went down to the forks of the Salmon and over to the head of the Beaver, a creek that flows west into the Columbia. They claim that there is fine farming land along both forks of the Salmon, and also on Beaver creek, and that no finer cedar timber can be found anywhere in the mountains than on these streams. Returning, they followed up the south fork of the Salmon to Hall creek, where John Lodge and a number of others are placer mining. They report the outlook promising for the boys on that creek, several of them having their claims in shape to begin sluicing, Lodge and his partner alone having put in over 2000 feet of flume. They report making no finds on the trip, except in one place on the north fork, where about 100 fine colors were obtained to the pan.

The owners of the fraction between the Blue Bell and the Kootenay Chief claim they have more solid ore on the surface than is on either of the big end claims for the same distance. Alec McLeod, Tom McGovern, George Francis, Jack McGinnis and Dennis Devlin are the owners. They are the boys who had the contract for sinking 100 feet on the Kootenay Chief. They put down a 6x6 shaft 100 feet in 50 days, earning $6.10 a day each. The shaft is in ore all the way. On the Tam O'Shanter, the edge is stripped for a distance of 300 feet and a tunnel in 80 feet. The face of the tunnel is in ore, with a high-grade streak on the footwall. Down at Crawford's Bay, R. H. Kemp has two or three locations which he hopes will some day yield him a sufficient sum to make him independent of enforced labor. No news of importance from Duck creek or Goat river.

Ore is being hauled from the Number One mine to the landing at Ainsworth for shipment to the smelter at Revelstoke. Over 200 tons are now sacked, and the contractors expect to haul six to 10 tons a day. The mine continues to look away up, as does the Fourth, in the same camp. The Skyline crosscut had not reached the ledge up to Wednesday night.

Mining News.

Mining experts note that cholera never attacks the bowels of the earth, but humanity in general find it necessary to use Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry for bowel complaints, dysentery, diarrhœa, etc. It is a sure cure.

A Commutation Refused

John Dudley, who was sentenced to the penitentiary two years ago for a term of seven years, will have to serve out the full term. The charge against the unfortunate young man, it will be remembered, was that of criminal assault upon a Mrs. Prior, a woman who has since served several months in jail for drunkenness. All the circumstances considered, it was felt at the time that the punishment was too severe, although the judge at the trial (Mr. Drake) had no other alternative than to sentence the prisoner to the shortest term imposed by law. The prisoner had always borne a good character, and since his sentence, Mr. J. A. Carthew, in whose employ he had been for three years, has interested himself in his fate. Mr. Carthew procured a great many signatures to a petition praying for a commutation of his sentence, over one hundred of the leading citizens of Victoria, together with the Chief of Police, police officers, and majority of the jury that sat on the case, cheerfully signing the appeal. This petition has been considered by the Minister of Justice, and also the report of the judge, and the former has replied that he is unable to recommend any mitigation of the sentence. The incidents in connection with the case are well known to our citizens, and the general opinion is that Dudley has been over-punished.

Imperial Federation.

Will present an opportunity to extend the fame of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry, the unfailing remedy for cholera, cholera morbus, colic, cramps, diarrhœa, dysentery and all summer complaints, to every part of the Empire. Wild Strawberry never fails.

THE CRY OF MILLIONS

OH, MY BACK!

STOP IT NOW,

SOON IT WILL BE TOO LATE.

I have been troubled many years with disease of the kidneys and have tried many different remedies and have sought aid from different physicians without relief. About the 15th of April I was suffering from a very violent attack that almost prostrated me in such a manner that I was bent over. When I sat down it was almost impossible for me to get up alone, or to put on my clothes, when kind Providence sent Dr. Henley, with the OREGON KIDNEY TEA, to my hotel. I immediately commenced using the tea. It had an almost miraculous effect, and to the astonishment of all the guests at the hotel, in a few days, I am happy to state, that I was a new man. I will recommend the tea to all afflicted as I have been.

FACING MANY WAYS.

Some of the Tory papers are belauding the speech of R. R. McLENNAN, M. P. for Glengarry, on the tariff question, and it seems fairly to represent the views of the party. Here is one extract:

> Hon. gentlemen opposite talk about the United States and want us to join hands with them, from a farming standpoint, but they forget to make comparisons between this and any other country. Let me say that the land in the United States is no better cultivated than is the land in Canada, and does not give as large a yield; and from the statistics that have been presented to House, it does not appear that the American farmers are to be envied, even although they have a market of 60,000,000 people at their doors. They are hopelessly in debt, and they have chattel mortgages, land mortgages, bills of sale, and mortgages on their crops growing in the fields before they are harvested.

When he came to consider the question of reciprocity, Mr. McLENNAN said:

> As to reciprocity in natural products, I do not know that we would benefit very largely by it, but I am in favor of reciprocity in the natural products of the country. I am in favor of reciprocal trade relations with the United States in a fair way; but I am not in favor of giving away everything we have and receiving nothing in return. I am bound to stand by my nationality and my country, and our connection with the British Empire. Anything we can do that is in reason and consistent with the best interests of the country and with maintaining our rights, I am in favor of. I think it is quite proper that we should enter, as early as possible, into a fair treaty, such as we are anxious to get with the United States. But I am opposed to the United States having the management of our revenue and taxation, I am opposed to adopting their customs duties, which are twice as high as ours, and direct taxation along with them; and under the principle which hon. gentlemen opposite are advocating, we would not have the management of our customs duties.

The attitude of Mr. McLENNAN's party is fairly well set forth in this remarkable speech. Say these wonderful statesmen: "The United States market would be no good to us, for farmers in the States are a miserable, bankrupt lot. Nevertheless, we are going to Washington to try and get this market opened up. Reciprocity in natural products would be of no benefit, but we are going to ask for it, for we are pretty sure we can't get it, and the apparent effort will tend to satisfy the farmers, anyway." There is no need to dwell on the hypocrisy of the Tory leaders in this matter; it is too transparent.

A PARTIAL TRIUMPH ONLY.

The triumph of the whaleback Wetmore is only partial. She has proved, it is true, that vessels carrying 95,000 bushels of grain can go from the upper lake ports down the St. Lawrence and across the Atlantic, but the unfortunate fact remains that such vessels cannot go back again. The St. Lawrence canals are not large enough to admit the passage of wheat carriers of the dimensions of the Wetmore. At present they can run the rapids going down, but they can neither stem the current nor pass the canals coming back. It is not likely, however, observes an eastern paper, that even if the canals are enlarged unbroken voyages between upper lake ports and Europe will become common. The tendency is to build larger and still larger ships, and no matter to how great an extent the capacity of the canals may be increased, they will still be too small to admit the passage of the bulky seagoing wheat carriers. The probability is, that the largest class of vessels will carry grain from Chicago, Duluth and other lake ports to the western entrance of the Welland Canal, where their cargoes will be transferred to barges for transmission to tide waters. The charge for elevating will undoubtedly be less than the saving by carrying on the two ends of the route larger cargoes than the canals can accommodate.

"STAND FROM UNDER."

To those Conservative journals which prate about the "righteous" conduct of the Ottawa Ministry and its "strength" in the country, we commend the following utterance of the Montreal Star, a paper which has strongly supported the Government:

> The life work of Sir John Macdonald is threatened with destruction by the revelations that are being made day after day in Ottawa. If the chiefs of the Conservative party are not blind to the true significance of the situation, or hopelessly bewildered by the fierce light so suddenly thrown upon the inner workings of the administration, they must see the necessity for prompt and decisive action to save the party, and with it the political principles it represents. The evidence now before the public points not to a few isolated acts of dishonesty in the Civil Service, but rather to the permeation of the whole service with the spirit of boodling and corruption. It is as though a large proportion of the subordinate officials of the Government had caught the infection of Mr. Murphy's "Uncles." If it were right in principle for a Cabinet Minister to pocket a thousand dollars out of a Government contract, how could it be wrong in principle for a poor devil of a a second-class clerk to pocket a hundred in the name of his mother-in-law or sister-in-law? Never since the Pacific scandal has the Government at Ottawa appeared in such a bad light. Were a general election held to-morrow the Liberals would sweep the country to the cry of "Turn the rascals out." There is now, as there was in 1874, a large section of the Conservative party which will refuse to condone boodling, and which will throw overboard every other consideration rather than support a corrupt administration, which will sacrifice even the National Policy rather than submit to "Nick" and "Mick" rule. There is but one way to save the party, and that is by a reorganization of the Ministry and a sweeping Civil Service reform. To retain in the Cabinet any man who is not above suspicion would be suicidal folly. The dismissal of a few clerks will not satisfy public opinion; the big boodlers as well as the little boodlers must go. The righteous indignation of the gentleman who engineered the great Pacific railway bribe in 1873 at the spectacle of the little $200 jobs of the Department of the Interior can easily be pictured. His contempt for such petty jobbery must be sublime. How many Ministers may be implicated in the recent scandals is matter for conjecture, but the resignations of Mr. Abbott and Sir Hector Langevin would put the party in a better position to deal with the offenders in the Civil Service. The Conservatives, if defeated on such an issue as that now before the country, will not recover as rapidly again as they did after the Pacific scandal. Then they had the personal popularity and ability of Sir John Macdonald to aid them. There are thousands of Canadians who would have rallied to the support of "John A." under almost any circumstances, in whom the name of John Joseph Caldwell Abbott does not and cannot arouse a particle of enthusiasm.

"SYMPATHETIC GANGLIA."

The man, JOHN THOMAS, who electrocuted himself recently hit upon a method which, it is thought, will revolutionize the system employed at Sing Sing. THOMAS's notion was that it was the "sympathetic ganglia" of nerves which should be shocked. According to his theory there should be no muscular contraction. In the cases of KEMMLER and the four men recently executed at Sing Sing, the electric current had been applied to the wrong set of nerves. His theory was to place one electrode directly over the pit of the stomach and the other at the back, thus passing the current through the great ganglion of the pneumo-gastric nerve. This, he claimed, would cause instantaneous paralysis of the heart and lungs. But THOMAS was unable to obtain official recognition of his theory, and so he concluded to experiment on himself. Accordingly he had an electric light placed in his workshop. With insulated wires he made the connections to an arrangement of steel rods at his bed, so that when lying down he could place the electrodes over the sympathetic ganglia in question. These preparations made, THOMAS went to bed, placed the electrodes, pulled the cord connecting with the switchboard and launched himself into eternity. The body, as found a day or two after the event, showed none of the marks which characterized the executions at Sing Sing. Not a muscle had twitched to disarrange the body. The strength of the current was about 1200 volts, showing that the current through the pneumogastric nerve requires neither so heavy nor so prolonged a shock as through the brain and spinal cord. Has it been left to an old crank in Missouri to tell scientists how men should be electrocuted?

EDITORIAL NOTES.

A dispatch from Buzzard's Bay, Mass., where EDWIN BOOTH has been staying, states that the great actor is dying from the effects of too much smoking and bids fair to follow Gen. GRANT as a victim of the weed. The habit has gained so much power over him that he cannot throw it off, though he knows that it is killing him. Smokers had better take warning from these examples. However innocent tobacco may be while used in moderation, any man has reached the danger point when it takes some 10 or 15 strong cigars a day to satisfy his appetite.

The several acts of insubordination in the British army have led to an important admission on the part of army officials. In acknowledging the fact of the mutiny, the War Office has been at the pains to explain that "unreasoning compliance with orders was no longer obtainable from men who are permeated with quasi-education," and that this fact must be borne in mind "in all future dealings with soldiers." This should seem to be a distinct intimation to army officers that the rank and file must be treated as if they were human.

The codlin moth is doing much damage to the apple crop in Oregon, and apples, according to latest reports, will this year be scarce in that state. The Oregonian lectures the orchardists severely on their carelessness in allowing this dangerous pest to make so much headway, and accuses them of neglecting to second the efforts of the State Board of Horticulture to keep it in check. "The members of the Board," says the paper, "have visited every section of the state and inspected orchards by the dozen, and in every case have found the pest hard at work, generally to the complete surprise of the owner of the trees. Orchard after orchard has been examined, after the owner declared positively that there were no codlin moths on his trees, and in every instance the pest was found present in force." It should not be difficult to detect the presence of the moth when it first appears, and that is the time when they can be most effectively dealt with. Apple-growers in British Columbia should be on the watch for the pest, so as to check its initial operations and prevent such damage as it is doing in Oregon. There, according to the Oregonian, "the first crop of worms are now in the apple or just coming out, preparatory to going into the chrysalis state for transformation into moths. In about 10 days the second crop of moths will appear and begin their work of stinging the fruit, each insect attacking from 50 to 300 apples." From this it will be seen how dangerous a foe to the apple crop the moth may prove.

THE SINGULAR B. A.

TO THE EDITOR:—With reluctance I am compelled to solicit space in your valuable journal, to correct your correspondent B.A., who seems fit to indulge in adverbial phraseology condemned early this year as a tissue of falsehoods and received a pauper's burial at the hands of the inventor who since then takes morning strolls around the rank weeds and tall nettles which grow in profusion on Lulu island.

Regardless of B.A., public opinion rules the day, and shall so long as its centre of gravity is rested on the basis, "justice to all," evidently the motto of the Education Department as expressed by parents and confirmed by pupils and teachers in this Province—B.A. and Mr. McLeod the only dissenters. Our system of education is second to none and far superior to those around us in the new world. I admit its imperfection only so long as it wants a training school for its teachers, and a home for contumacious cranks to protect society after their dismissal from the services of the department.

This B.A. is wrong any way. I am in no way under obligations to the Government beyond that afforded by protection of life and property, having no favors to ask, and being thoroughly free to exercise my independence as a free lance and express my conviction with courage, regardless of class and party. This I willingly do as an admirer of our school system which decidedly reflects credit on the superintendent and his colleague by all capable of offering an opinion.

B.A.

THE CROFTERS.

TO THE EDITOR:—The Colonist this morning in one of its leading articles sees fit to comment unfavorably on the projected incoming of a people about whom, I am satisfied, the editor of the Colonist knows nothing. If he did know them, I am satisfied the article alluded to never would have appeared. The Colonist says that a number of Scotch Crofters, likely to come here shortly, are not a desirable class of immigrants. If they are not, I would like the Colonist to say who are. I am astonished, sir, to think that there should be a paper in the whole length and breadth of this Dominion to raise its voice against a people from whom sprang so many ready and always willing to defend the honor of their united country. I would ask the editor of the Colonist who were the first to settle in this province? Were they not of the same kith and kin that the Colonist takes exception to? And who to-day are the men foremost in the development of this province? Are they not to a large extent part and parcel of the people the Colonist condemns? Who are the McDonalds, the Frasers, the Finlaysons, the Tolmies, the Grants, the Simpsons, the Murrays, and thousands of other leading men in the country? Who was it, sir, on the field of Waterloo withstood the charge of the Great Napoleon's greatest soldiers? Who was it on the heights of Alma charged on the brigade of Russian cavalry? Who was it made their way at Lucknow through blood and fire to rescue their countrymen so sorely beleaguered by hosts of Sepoys? Were they not of this very people the Colonist takes exception to? And who was the gallant soldier who led them, Colin Campbell, but another of the same? Who are the Black Watch, the Rosshire Buffs, the 93rd and many others of that ilk who for centuries fought Britain's battles? And yet the Colonist says their descendants are not fit to make a living for themselves in this glorious province. As I said before, sir, I am disgusted to think that there should be one paper in the country to come out in a leader, as the Colonist did this morning, and in conclusion I will add that it is a crying shame on the home Government to allow those very Highlanders to have to leave the homes of their forefathers, simply to make deer pastures and hunting grounds of their holdings for a pampered few.

A Chinaman's Carelessness

A coroner's jury at Vancouver has returned a verdict that Colvin Purvis, the brakeman, who was killed on the C.P.R. Mission branch a few days ago, came to his death through the carelessness of a Chinaman and the company's servant whose place it was to keep the line clear. The Chinaman was committed for trial.

Quickly Despatched.

It took just 10 minutes to dispose of six drunks in the City police court this morning. They were all a bankrupt lot and will, unless funds be forthcoming, have to spend eight days in the city lockup. They will not be allowed to spend much time in idle meditation. Jailers Mitten and Allen will see that their time is fully occupied.

Figures Wont Lie.

And this is the way it figures, paying for a home without money, providing you are paying $25 a month rent. In five years you would pay $1500 that you would never get back, not even interest. And the natural advance in five years on your property ought to be about $500, total $2000. So if you should purchase one of those beautiful $2000 cottages of YOUNG & BARTLETT, No. 9 Trounce Avenue, on the installment plan, in five years you will virtually have paid for your home without money.

The Kingston Crowded.

The steamer City of Kingston was crowded with passengers last evening, there being upwards of 400 aboard her. The crowd was principally made up of Seattleites who were unable to obtain passage on the Victorian. When they found that they had been left behind by the Victorian, several gentlemen got a party together, boarded the Kingston, telegraphed to Port Townsend for a band, and came to Victoria, where they joined those who came over on the Victorian. The Kingston waited till 9.30 last evening, giving the party five hours in Victoria.

All transactions have been in residential properties situate in different parts of town, but noticeably in the Oak Bay and Cloverdale districts, and in this latter district no less than 12 lots were sold within the last three days.

Those Who Read Books.

During the month of July the number of books issued from the Public Library was 2409, the ladies taking 1106 of them and the gentlemen 1303. The average was 93, and the greatest number lent any one day was 134. There were 60 new cards issued, 19 to ladies and 41 to gentlemen. It will be seen that the latter are the greater readers.

The Fort Street Route.

The street car company have surveyed the road from the Fort street extension to the Driving Park, and the lines are to be laid along the edge of the present road. The property owners and others interested are endeavoring to have this thoroughfare widened to 60 feet. It is at present only 30 feet, and when the street cars are running there will not be room to swing the proverbial cat. The majority of the owners have signified their willingness to grant the required space, and it now remains for the Hospital people and a few others to improve their own property by improving the thoroughfare. It is to be hoped that the desired step will be made before the tracks are laid.

The Crematory Question.

Mr. James Watt, secretary of the Engle crematory system, Des Moines, is in the city. The company is erecting a crematory at Vancouver, and Mr. Watt came over to discuss the same question with the Victoria authorities. He had a conversation this morning with Ald. Holland, who has worked so hard in this matter, and recommended to that gentleman the pressing necessity of such an institution in Victoria. Mr. Watt said to a reporter this morning that there is altogether an erroneous impression prevailing in Victoria in regard to a crematory. It is not a nuisance, for by the Engle system everything goes through the fire twice, and as everything is consumed there is no unpleasantness, nor is there any refuse as in other systems. The Engle system is the most modern. No decision could be arrived at with Mr. Watt to-day, as there is still an uncertainty as to site, but he feels certain that if the people could be persuaded of the necessity and desirability of a crematory here they would not hesitate a moment about having one.

The Thistle Returns.

The steam sealer the Thistle returned from the North this morning, with 82 skins, which were obtained in the Behring Sea before she was warned out. Mr. Manson, one of the owners, says he thinks the Thistle was one of the best warned vessels of the whole sealing fleet. She got into the sea by the Four Mountain Pass on the 4th of July, and had succeeded in catching the above number before she was overhauled by the Corwin, whose commander ordered her out. She was subsequently commanded to leave by the rush, and afterwards by the British ship Nymphe. There are now four American vessels and two British vessels filling the duties of nautical policemen. The former are crowing loudly over their seizure of the saucy E. B. Marvin, whose clean heels have often been shown to her pursuers. The Thistle was about fourteen days on her way home, taking her time.

The grumblings among the sealers are becoming loud and serious.

Seattle Firemen Resign.

All the members of the Seattle fire department handed in their resignations last night. They are to take effect on August 16. Chief Kellogg will walk out with his men. This extraordinary action was brought about by the report of the retrenchment committee of the city council, and the action of the council in reporting favorably upon it.

A New Pharmacy.

C. H. Bowes & Co., recognizing the fact that the "west end" of this fair city is rapidly increasing in population, and believing that its people will thoroughly appreciate a first-class Pharmacy in proximity to this growing suburb, have, in response to the growing necessity, opened a Dispensing Pharmacy on the corner of Store and Johnson streets. They make a specialty of accuracy in dispensing, purity of materials used, and careful attention to the wants of their patrons. *

A Few Fire Facts.

For the seven months just closed with July the fire loss of Victoria was less than $3500, a remarkably good showing. The fire department costs the city $20,000, of which a sum of $8000 is contributed by the insurance companies, thus making the net cost to the city $12,000. Seattle's fire department costs that city $95,000 and Tacoma $99,600 per annum. Comparatively speaking, Victoria's cost is next to nothing, and the service is almost as perfect as any of the cities mentioned, for both Seattle's and Tacoma's fire loss runs over the hundred thousand dollar figure each year.

The Provincial Government have appropriated the sum of $500 this year for the fire department. This is the first year that such an appropriation has been made since the organization of the paid department, and it is understood by the firemen that the amount is given for services outside the city limits. This sum should be used to form an accident or insurance fund, similar to firemen's relief funds in other cities. At present should an accident occur to any fireman in the discharge of his duty he would receive no relief, and it stands to reason that if a man knows his family is protected he will work with greater will. At present the call men receive but $18 a month, and every time they attend a fire they are prepared to assume considerable risks. The old volunteer corps had a charitable association which in some measure provided against risk. The sum of $500 appropriated by the Government would form the nucleus of such a fund.

REMANDED FOR A WEEK.

Further Evidence in the Case of Regina vs. Chin-Ha-Mot.

The case of Chin-Ha-Mot, on remand, charged with the murder of Isaac Cloake, in September, 1876, was called in the Provincial Police Court at 10:30 this morning. A large number of Indians had arrived down from Cowichan and Saanich to watch the proceedings, and consequently the larger court room had to be used to accommodate them.

Officer Hunter was called. He deposed that he went to Cowichan on the 30th of July with a search warrant, and searched the prisoner's house. He found a black coat in the bottom of a trunk which was in the prisoner's house. He recognized a coat produced in court as the one he found. It was a fine, old-fashioned broadcloth one. The coat answered the description of the one lost.

To Supt. Hussey.—The coat is a very large sized one. He arrested the prisoner on the 26th of July in the same house that he found the coat.

To Mr. Irving.—There were many boxes in the house; the box he found the coat in was the last one. The coat was heavily creased, and looked as though it had not been recently worn.

Daniel David Moses said he lived in this city at present. He formerly lived in North Saanich. He knew Isaac Cloake well; he was his nearest neighbor. His house was on the hillside in North Saanich, surrounded by two or three acres of cultivated land on the east side of the Sanaach road, just opposite witness' gate. It was about 100 yards from the road. He remembered Isaac Cloake's death on Sunday night, Sept. 18th, 1876. On that night Cloake's house was burnt down, or at least on Monday morning he saw that the house had been burned down. On Monday morning Messrs. Wall and Towner came to his, the witness', house enquiring for Cloake. They went to Cloake's house and examined the place where the house had stood. The building was completely burned down. They found among the debris the charred remains of Mr. Cloake as they supposed. The body was burned beyond recognition. Cloake had been living there for about five years, alone. He had seen Cloake alive a few days before the fire. He generally wore rough clothing, doeskin or corduroy, around the ranch. He had a black suit and a stovepipe hat. He did not know anything about the coat produced. Cloake used to wear a long coat something of the same shape and color as the one produced. He could not say what kind of tablecloths Cloake used. He had oilcloth on the kitchen table. He believed the body was found in the bedroom where he slept as far as they could make out. At the foot of the bed at the northeast corner. His head was away from the bedstead. There was no remnant of Cloake's bed left. He had described the position of the bed from his recollection of it before the fire. There were two inquests held. He was one of the jury. The verdict was an open one. There was an Indian potlach being held at South Saanich at the time. He did not recollect the prisoner. To Supt. Hussey. It was supposed at the time that one of the arms had been broken. He did not remember if there were any marks on the head. Cloake was in the habit of keeping money around the house. It might have amounted to a few hundred dollars. He must have kept that much to pay the Indians. He was fond of showing his money. He did not grow any hops the last season he was alive and he employed very few Indians that year. He did grow some grain and must have employed some one to harvest the crops, as he was too old to do it himself. They found about $30 or $40 worth of silver and some gold in the debris. Cloake was a big stout man.

Fanny Battleman recalled—Said when Chin-Ha-Mot got the clothes out of the bush he put them in the canoe and took them home. He left the clothes in a bundle in the house. He had them there for a long while. He never wore the clothes. He did not have a trunk at the time but got one afterwards. He has the trunk at Saanich still. She did not think the coat produced was the same one although it was something like it. The coat was the same shape and color, but it was not the same one. The other one was an older coat. She only saw the old coat once, but never touched it. Mr. Irving reserved his cross-examination of the witness.

The case was then remanded for one week.

ABOUT VANCOUVER "GUFF."

TO THE EDITOR:—The Vancouver World has a lot of "guff" about the Victorian excursion. It speaks of the "young gentleman" who had not been there for ten years. Supposing that "young gentleman" had reached the ripe age of 25, he was 15 when he was last in the woods where Vancouver is now. That was an age when he was more impressed with birds' nests than empty blocks. The bustle and stir of Seattle that he was reminded of were made by the Victorian excursions, for I saw no one on the streets before the boat arrived, except a few scattered pedestrians. The Victorians crowded in, spent money, and woke up the sleepy storekeepers. But the best, or rather the worst, of it was we couldn't get a decent meal in the whole town. By the general tone of the "guffy" article I should judge that the writer is more than professionally familiar with the 'Arry and 'Arriet tribe.

But the Victorians saw, and were able to compare their home with a city of empty blocks, and no place to get a decently cooked meal.

ANOTHER SEALER HOME.

One Boat and Three Men Lost—The Nymphe Came up in a Fog.

Last night about 10:30 o'clock the sealing schooner Sea Lion, Capt. Bushholz, 13 days from Behring Sea, arrived in Victoria harbor. The schooner left Victoria for the sealing grounds on April 14. On May 8 she lowered a boat with three men, who pulled the boat for some distance out of sight of the schooner, and although the vessel stayed in the vicinity for four days and made diligent search, nothing has been heard of the boat or its occupants. The Sea Lion had caught, up to the time of meeting the Danube, 584 seals, which were transferred to that vessel. The sealer then started for Behring Sea, which was entered the night of July 3. Bad weather prevailed up to about the middle of July, and there was little chance of taking seals, so that by the 14th she only had 80 skins. On that day all the boats were out, when one of those fogs so prevalent in the sea suddenly settled down, completely obliterating everything in sight. In order to guide the boats to the vessel, the cannon was fired. The hunters followed the sound and reached the boat all right, but when the fog suddenly lifted the captain, to his dismay, discovered that H.M.S. Nymphe had also heard and taken advantage of the cannon's roar, and was bearing down on the sealer with a full head of steam. It was too late to make a run for it, so Capt. Bushholz submitted with good grace to being served with the order, and immediately decided to leave the sea, and 17 days after meeting the Nymphe cast anchor once more in Victoria harbor. On the way down she sighted the Pathfinder, but what luck the latter vessel had was not learned. The total catch of the season by the Sea Lion was 1024 skins.

WAKEMAN'S WANDERINGS

THE LOWLY OF LIVERPOOL AND THEIR WAGES.

Half a Million Souls Who Exist on from Three to Thirty-two Shillings Per Week. Drink, and "Scamping the Rents" the Chief Diversions.

[Copyright, 1891, by Edgar L. Wakeman.]

LIVERPOOL, July 21.—With its outlying boroughs and suburbs Liverpool houses well nigh a million souls. Its maritime interests are enormous, and commercially it no doubt ranks as the second city in the empire. It is a hard, practical city. Its business men and factors are grim, severe fellows, stern of decision as New York millionaires, and restless, diligent and unconquerable as the men who have set the killing pace in Chicago.

There is little room for pleasant things in Liverpool. Its chief and almost sole gallery of paintings was given the city by a graduated rumseller, whom Victoria, out of surprise and wonder no doubt, made a baronet. Although one of the world's greatest depots for the book collector it has but one library of note available to the public. Charities are done in a perfunctory, petulant manner—although the helpless were most ill mannered in selecting busy Liverpool to starve in—and its hundreds of thousands of working men and women are treated with less consideration than cattle.

With a few shining examples it is a city of commercial Gradgrinds on the one hand and public house devilfish on the other. The lowly have a sad lot between them. Nobody here wants it that way. Nobody here believes it is that way. A few men like Sir James Poole are endeavoring to help the masses to better things, and are finding a little time from business affairs to do something practical and good. But as a rule the men who own great fleets, who exchange half the English speaking world's raw and manufactured products, push forward in their money-grabbing career like automatons of stone, and their fellow humans are counted as coal, iron or cotton are computed in loss or gain.

In studying the condition of the lowly of any great city the demand for labor, wages paid and the cost of living are the first things to be considered. These things indicate how the people might live if possessed of all prudence and sobriety. How they really live, and why, is another matter.

There is seldom a dearth of labor in any great seaport. Liverpool has always stood high in percentage of labor demand. The city has never been subject to the relentless overcrowding of manufacturing towns like Leeds, Manchester and Birmingham, or the destructive greed of tremendous and endless immigration, as at New York. It is the greatest entrepot in Europe. The landing, handling and reshipment of nearly all North and South American products exported to Europe, and the reshipment to all quarters of the globe of the greater part of the stupendous quantities of British manufactures are done at this one port. Its warehouses and docks are almost inconceivably numerous and extensive. Fifty thousand men are alone constantly required in the various forms of dock labor. This fact will sufficiently indicate the almost measureless business ramifications requiring uninterrupted service.

Steady labor and plenty of it is the rule. The least possible wages upon which the workers may exist also prevail. The best paid men among the 50,000 laborers employed upon the docks are the stevedores who load and unload the ships—"lumpers" they are called—who get five shillings per day, and the dock porters or "goods" handlers, who receive a sixpence less. "Lorry men," or cartmen with two horses tandem, earn thirty shillings, and with one horse twenty-six shillings. The police are paid from twenty to thirty-two shillings, with corresponding deductions to eventually pay for their own pensioning when too old for further service. A gateman at the Exchange railway station told me he had been in the same service sixteen years and had never received above nineteen shillings per week, and no manner of employe about these great stations is paid upward of twenty shillings.

All grades of clerks, porters and salesmen and women about the markets receive from eight to eighteen shillings. Tram car drivers get as high as twenty-four shillings, but conductors never above twenty-one. Barbers, caretakers or janitors and watchmen, milkmen, bakers' men, grocery and market trap drivers, express and railway package and freight collectors receive only from ten to eighteen shillings, while corporation day laborers are paid from sixteen to twenty shillings per week.

Liverpool cabmen are the most woebegone lot of their kind in the world. Cab owners occasionally rent a hansom or brougham to a trustworthy fellow at a stated sum, but there are not fifty out of nearly 3,000 that have arrived at this dignity in their calling. The remainder get from twelve to eighteen shillings per week. One pities these fellows. They are lame, halt, blind, veinous nosed and palsied, without sufficient spirit for genuine viciousness. I had thought the Havana cocheros the most beggarly set of these fellows on earth, but if you wish to observe at one study all that could be seen in all the British workhouses, reformatories and hospitals for incurables station yourself anywhere on Crosshall street, opposite the municipal buildings, near St. George's hall, or at the landings on any steamer arrival day, and cast a glance down along a line of waiting Liverpool cabmen. I have asked several cab owners why, in the name of human existence, such mockery of wages is paid.

"W'y, blow their bloody h'eyes! They rob us juss so much hany'ow," is the universal rejoinder.

"Couldn't you 'book' them for each trip and fare?"

"Oh, aye, some hon us does that werry thing. Then they rob the 'fare' (passenger) at th' hend o' the journey, an' picks oop a back fare hon us beside. They's a passel o' pirates, is they."

The clerks of Liverpool are not to be envied. Male clerks employed in the great warehouses, refineries, insurance offices, in the gigantic cotton trade and in the myriad shipping offices are the victims of a most iniquitous system. It is true that a few head clerks, accountants and office managers receive from twenty to forty shillings per week and manage to lead comparatively comfortable lives, but fully 90 per cent. give their best years, from sixteen and eighteen to thirty, at from six to eighteen and twenty shillings per week. They are deluded into this sort of slavery by the glittering hope of "advancement." Tremendous wealth and its power are all about them. They slave like beasts and dream of ultimate place among the money kings of Liverpool.

After years of faithful service, and at a time of life when no new career is possible, they are met by the stone wall of indifference on the part of their employers, helplessly see the posts of trust about and above them filled by still cheaper imported help from Germany and Holland, and come to be hopeless old men at forty. Clerks in retail establishments, of whom the greater number are women, fare better in one respect. While their wages are even less than those in offices, a system is in vogue here which gives them at least the necessities of life. A large number of establishments provide food and dormitories for their staffs. A regime of the utmost severity exists, but the employers thus secure the advantage of absolute surveillance of the miserable "truck" system in another form, where all they give is got back with profit, and the docile, unquestioning labor of their prison-kept white slaves from 8 in the morning until 8 and sometimes 10 o'clock at night.

Looking at the great army of more lowly toilers and house servants, the study is certainly not a pleasanter one. There are large gangs of girls known as "cotton pickers," who may be seen at the noon hour wandering bareheaded through the streets, their beggarly garments covered with cotton lint. Those who are not barefooted wear heavy clogs without stockings, and they will kick shins with any rough in Liverpool for a pot of beer. Many cargoes of damaged cotton arrive here. It is sold by auction to a class of dealers who dry it and prepare it a second time for the market. Two or three thousand of the hoodlum class of young women sort or "pick" this stuff in filthy noisome pens. The employment is not steady, and they get what the renovators have a mind to pay—all the way from four to ten shillings per week. These girls and women are about as respectable as men would be under like circumstances; drink gallons of beer per day while at work, "clubbing" their pennies for its purchase; ferociously beat those who do not "drink fair," and live in any manner they may, there being absolutely no effort on the part of any person or society to better their condition.

Plain cooks in houses, restaurants and the common grade of inns will earn eight shillings per week. A general house servant receives six shillings. A housemaid, nurse and waitress combined, who is regarded as the highest grade of house servant, may receive eight shillings. Charwomen or scrubwomen receive three shillings per day and breakfast—that is, tea and bread and butter, and they may possibly secure two engagements per week. Washerwomen are very glad to earn altogether ten shillings per week, and perhaps their assistants may get from a shilling to one and fourpence a day and "tea," or "three ha'p'worth of bitter," which translated means three cents' worth of bitter beer.

Girls in tobacco, confectionery and stationers' shops will receive from four to six shillings per week, and waitresses in restaurants, considering the severity and hours of their labor, are the poorest paid of all. Many of these girls are required to serve meals in gentlemen's chambers and in offices at all hours, after the manner of the Havana coolie cantineros, and are subject to all manner of insult, which they endure with a dogged bravery and cheery invulnerability entitling them to be regarded as real heroines in any other land.

There is a very fine cafe at the head of Dale street where nearly a thousand employers and clerks from the Cotton exchange and neighboring offices lunch or dine daily. It will rank with our better class American restaurants. The entire service is by women. There are from twenty-five to thirty as comely, cleanly, bright, well educated and thoroughly respectable young women here as could be found at any aristocratic levee in New York or London. Having often been served at the place, at the same table and by the same waitress, I asked her the amount of wages per week she was paid.

"Six shillings," she replied cheerily.

"Cannot you find service at better wages in Liverpool?" I inquired.

"Do you get any 'tips' besides?"

"Very seldom, sir. Only occasionally from strangers. The clerks who come here can't afford it, and the masters never do that in Liverpool."

"And this six shillings per week is all you do earn, or can earn, after a good education and while using the best years of your life?"

"Oh, but you must remember, sir"—and this triumphantly—"we get our own food besides; and very good food it is, sir!"

There was no use of continuing the inquisition. Here was the absolute limit of a handsome, capable, well educated and respectable woman's possibilities and aspirations, because of her own absolute knowledge in the matter, in this second city of Britain.

"Ah, but money has twice the purchasing power in Great Britain that it has in America," some one remarks.

There never was a crueler political or other falsehood coined. It is absolutely true that there is not a human need, I do not say a luxury, which cannot be as cheaply or more cheaply purchased in America than in England, barring the one item of a habitation. The burning fact is that the lowly of this country are forced to live twice or thrice as meagerly as our own toilers. Here capital has, with devilish ingenuity—as it may do with us in time if immigration be not soon wholesomely restricted—ascertained to a farthing on how little human beings who labor may be made to exist; and Britons who "never, never will be slaves," are slaves of the most hopeless character from the cradle to the grave.

But what may be the amusements and diversions of the Liverpool lowly? is a natural inquiry. They are drink, drink, drink and "scamping" the rents. Not all are drunkards. Most of them are regular drinkers. The horror of it all is, women predominate. From Saturday noon until 11 at night, and again from Sunday noon until 10 at night, excepting closing hour between half past 2 and 6 o'clock, in the bar, smoking rooms, "snugs" and parlors of each of the about 2,000 licensed public houses of the city and environs, an average of fifty persons may be found in all conditions of "cheeriness" and semi-consciousness. That will account for about 100,000 persons. I do not know how often these gatherings will wholly change their personnel. But I believe a quarter of a million people in Liverpool drink whenever they can get it, and that one-half of that number are confirmed tipplers and drunkards.

The homes of most of these are bare walls and squalid belongings. The public house is the only cheerful place they know in their lives. Rent collectors assert that over 10,000 of such families "scamp the rents," that is, get possession of any sort of habitation and remain rent free until warned out or thrown out by a bailiff. There is not in any ten leading American cities as much actual squalor and beastly hopelessness as may be found in this one. And yet nearly every one of this class does something and earns something here. Whatever may be the "purchasing power" of money in America, it is a good thing to remember that American laborers are not yet the subjects of such studies as these.

A FAMOUS DUELIST.

Tales of Alex. K. McClung, Once the Terror of the Mississippi.

Thirty-five years ago the name of Alexander K. McClung was known and feared all over the State of Mississippi, says the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. He had come out of the Mexican war with a dangerous wound, received at the storming of Monterey, while at the head of his regiment; he had killed several men in street encounters and under the cruel code duello, and he was known as a man of dauntless courage and imperious temper. Few men of his day entered life with fairer prospects of achieving an honorable and enduring fame. In some respects he was a natural "Admirable Crichton" among men. He was possessed of a magnificent physique, and was a born soldier poet, orator; but he died before his splendid gifts had hardly begun to germinate.

The curious lover of reminiscences has only to broach the subject of "McClung" to old residents to hear thrilling incidents of the desperado-duelist's doings. Occasionally they were of a humorous character. Upon one occasion Colonel McClung became enraged at an acquaintance in a public place, but instead of sending the usual formal challenge, he kicked the offending party out of the front door. A short time after this, at another public place, McClung saw the same person kick another man out the door. Very much amused and now in a good humor, the duelist piensantly called attention to the coincidence between this and their own reconter.

"That's all right, Colonel McClung," retorted the kicked kicker, "you and I know who to kick."

Tradition says he never quailed before danger or seemed to be satisfied with the courage of his antagonist except upon one occasion. Having passed a challenge, the offender chose bowie knives in a dark room. Each was to take his stand in an opposite corner, when, upon a given signal, the seconds were to extinguish the lights, lock the door and retire; then the two were to meet and cut till one or both were killed or satisfied. Knowing McClung to be expert with pistol, sword and knife, the challenged party remained perfectly still in his corner, while the desperado went plunging around in the dark like a madman, hacking and slashing as if in close encounter. Finally, after several minutes of this terrific test of the nervous system, unable to find his antagonist, yet feeling conscious that he himself was in mortal danger, it is said his courage for the time failed him, and the hero of a dozen desperate fights stopped short and cried out: "Where are you?" and demanded that the door be opened. He was satisfied. When the lights were restored Colonel McClung was white as a sheet.

Upon another occasion he made an insulting remark to a little fellow whom he could almost have carried around upon his shoulder, for physical strength was another of his natural gifts. To his surprise and amagement the man proved game. Walking up to his towering antagonist and shaking his fist he exclaimed:

"Colonel McClung! I'll let you know, sir, I'm no sardine if you are a whale!"

McClung laughingly shook hands with him on the spot and apologized.

An anecdote is related of Colonel McClung, which may or may not be Gospel truth, but it is at least plausible as being in line with his well-known character. The story goes that he was in the habit of visiting a lady at Mobile whom he admired. One evening when calling he noticed that she seemed nervous and agitated. He understood why when a heavy step sounded along the corridor and a brisk knock came on the door, which had been hurriedly closed by the lady. The knock was followed by a gruff voice demanding admission. The fair one explained to the Colonel that they were both in imminent peril, as the gentleman on the outside was a river captain who came to town periodically and insisted much against her will on visiting her.

"Let him in!" said McClung.

"Oh, but he'll kill us!" said the poor lady.

"Never you mind about that; you let him in," said the gallant Mississippian.

The outsider was getting furious by this time, and when the door was opened he fairly glared at the man he looked upon as an intruder.

"See here, young man," he yelled, "climb out of here, and don't waste any time."

Colonel McClung was reclining on a sofa, his head resting easily on his hand. Without changing his position he simply asked the river man:

"Do you know who I am, sir?"

"No, and —— the difference; you clear out."

Still, without making a movement, McClung drawled:

"Well, I am from Mississippi, and my name is Alexander McClung. I'll give you ten seconds to vacate the room."

"I have time to spare, Colonel," said the Captain, as he made a bee line for the door.

Colonel McClung was found dead in his hotel at Jackson, weltering in his blood, with one of his dueling pistols lying by his side. No doubt existed but that he had taken his own life. The causes generally given are two—remorse because of the men he had slain, and disappointment in not receiving a foreign office at the hands of the Whig administration he had worked to place in power so far as Mississippi was concerned.

Vine Culture in America.

Some recent statistics show that very rapid increase is being made in vine culture in this country. There are now under vine culture in America 400,000 acres, of which about 300,000 are bearing. The estimated value of the vineyards and wine cellars is $155,000,000. In California there are 150,000 acres under vine culture, and a large proportion of the grapes produced are made into wine. Most of the grapes grown in New York State are sold for food. The total production of wine in the United States during the last year is about 40,000,000 gallons.

A SHORT SESSION.

The Trustees Meet to Dispose of a Little Business—New School.

A special meeting of the Board of School Trustees was held at the City Hall last evening for the purpose of considering school matters in regard to to the new act. There were present, Chairman Hayward, Trustees Morrow, McLaughlin, Jessop, McConnan Saunders.

The secretary read a communication from Hon. Theodore Davie, attorney-general, giving us his opinion that a majority of the Board would constitute a quorum, and that the Board were acting within their power when they adopted rules of order for their guidance. Received and filed.

From the City Clerk, enclosing the resolution passed at the City Council on Thursday evening in regard to the funds for the use of the Board of School Trustees. The letter was received and filed, and the secretary ordered to return the thanks of the Board to the Aldermen for their prompt attention in the matter.

From J. N. Muir, protesting against the building of an addition to the Victoria West Ward school and also against the appointment of two additional teachers to that school as the principal of that school was already getting better wages than teachers of other ward schools, and because other ward schools needed additional teachers. Received and filed.

A number of applicants for positions on the teaching staff were laid on the table until the next meeting.

The matter of building an addition to Victoria West school was mentioned, but nothing done, as one of the trustees thought it would be better to look into what was necessary around the ward schools.

Chairman Hayward said that the Board had to appoint the teachers and afford the accomodation as laid down in the estimates. A committee was appointed to see the architect and make arrangements for an addition to the Victoria West school with power to act.

A special committee was appointed to choose a place for the additional school for which a certain amount was put aside for in the estimates.

Trustee McLaughlin thought it would be better to increase the James Bay and Hillside ward schools both of which were overcrowded.

The meeting then adjourned until Tuesday evening.

Makes the Weak Strong

The marked benefit which people in run down or weakened state of health derive from Hood's Sarsaparilla, conclusively proves the claim that this medicine "makes the weak strong." It does not act like a stimulant, imparting fictitious strength from which there must follow a reaction of greater weakness than before, but in the most natural way Hood's Sarsaparilla overcomes

Fagged Out

"Last spring I was completely fagged out. My strength left me and I felt sick and miserable all the time, so that I could hardly attend to my business. I took one bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and it cured me. There is nothing like it." R. C. BEGOLE, Editor Enterprise, Belleville, Mich.

Worn Out

"Hood's Sarsaparilla restored me to good health. Indeed, I might say truthfully it saved my life. To one feeling tired and worn out I would earnestly recommend a trial of Hood's Sarsaparilla." MRS. PHEBE MOSHER, 90 Brooks Street, East Boston, Mass.

NANAIMO NEWS.

Enquiry Adjourned—Extending the City—Custom Returns—Coal Shipments.

NANAIMO, Aug. 1.—The result of the enquiry at East Wellington so far has only corroborated the fact that the explosion was caused by Griffiths firing the gas. There seems to be considerable dissatisfaction about the inability of W. Bowater (fire boss) to write out his report, and in consequence he had to rely upon other individuals to do it for him. The enquiry has now been postponed for one week, and the outcome will probably be that the jury will return a verdict that the deceased met their death through the explosion of gas.

NANAIMO AS A BUSINESS CITY.

One of the leading Victoria wholesale houses claim that Nanaimo is about the best city to do business in of any of the cities on the coast. They give this reason for this statement, that on account of the large amount of money circulated here monthly, the credit they give is of short duration and the orders are more often given, and it generally takes a traveler two or three days to complete his business in Nanaimo. It is very flattering to the citizens of Nanaimo to hear such pleasant opinions of their city which they look upon with a certain amount of pride.

EXTENDING THE CITY.

It is more than probable that the extension of the city will take place about the spring of next year. The numerous buildings which are being erected close to the city limits will fully justify the council in taking this step; and the owners of these buildings are anxious that they should be brought within the corporation. One driving around the outskirts of the city would be astonished to notice how far the city is extending and the vast amount of improvements that are being made and still the demand for dwellings continues to be greater than the supply.
